

Policy on Public Displays of Large Size Design and Construction Projects

Policy was approved by EXCOM December 6, 2002

Faculty or students who wish to build and display large structures must obtain written permission from the Department Head and Dean before the project begins. The intention of this policy is to preserve the safety of participants and the public and assure that adverse impacts are avoided or reduced.

Any large structure must have a faculty sponsor who will be responsible for seeing that the intent of this policy is achieved.

The sponsor and participants must provide a plan outlining expense to private individuals, the College and the University, the duration of the exhibit, a realistic assessment of risks, and a plan for installation, removal and disposal.

The Dean will assess the project as recommended by the appropriate Department Head, consult with relevant University officials and determine whether permission will be granted.
